

E. Northwest flank of South Sister. Skyline epaulet high on right shoulder is thin agglutinate sheet that fell during most recent summit eruption. Headwalls of cirques expose thick red cinders that are intercalated with stack of radially dipping lava flows that built current cone. Photograph by Judy Fierstein, 2006.